Michigan Supreme Court will hear arguments in the South Haven drowning case

By James Windell

The Michigan Supreme Court has just announced that it will hear oral arguments related to government immunity in a fatal drowning case.

Crystal LeDuke filed a wrongful death lawsuit against the City of South Haven in May 2024 after her 18-year-old son Brandon Chambers drowned while swimming at a city beach in 2020.

In September, 2025, the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled that the City of South Haven has governmental immunity, siding with the city over LeDuke's claim.

LeDuke, the plaintiff, has argued that the City is not entitled to governmental immunity because it operates its beaches for the purpose of generating a profit. The City moved for summary disposition arguing that it is entitled to governmental immunity because its operation of South Beach is a government function. Furthermore, South Haven contended that the proprietary function exception does not apply because its operation of its beaches is self-sustaining and its primary purpose for operating the beaches is not to create a profit.

Initially, a trial court denied the motion, finding that a genuine issue of material fact exists as to whether the City operates its beaches for profit. The Michigan Court of Appeals, however, in September, 2025, reversed this decision in a 2-1 unpublished opinion.

On April 3, 2026, the Michigan Supreme Court ordered oral argument on the application to address whether the Court of Appeals erred when it held that there is no question of fact regarding the application of the proprietary function exception to governmental immunity and that the defendant City of South Haven is entitled to summary disposition.

The Michigan Supreme Court could uphold or reverse the lower court's order or issue its own interpretation of the case.

No date has been set yet for oral arguments.

Former DQ demolished in downtown South Haven

By James Windell

The building that was once a Dairy Queen and more recently Kitchen Tribes restaurant is no more.

A demotion team with two large excavators made short work of reducing the buildings at 555 and 559 Phoenix to a pile of rubble.

But what will become of the property next door to the South Haven City Hall?

Irene Wood, who bought the property at the end of 2025, said that there is no definitive answer to that question at this time.

"We made a quick decision to acquire the property and we're still looking at some options," Wood said on April 7, 2026, just after the excavators did their job.

Wood went on to explain she viewed the property when she found it was for sale in December, 2025. "The bank said if we bought it by the end of the year they would give us a deal," she said. "So we bought it quickly with the thought that we would have some time to think about what we wanted to do there."

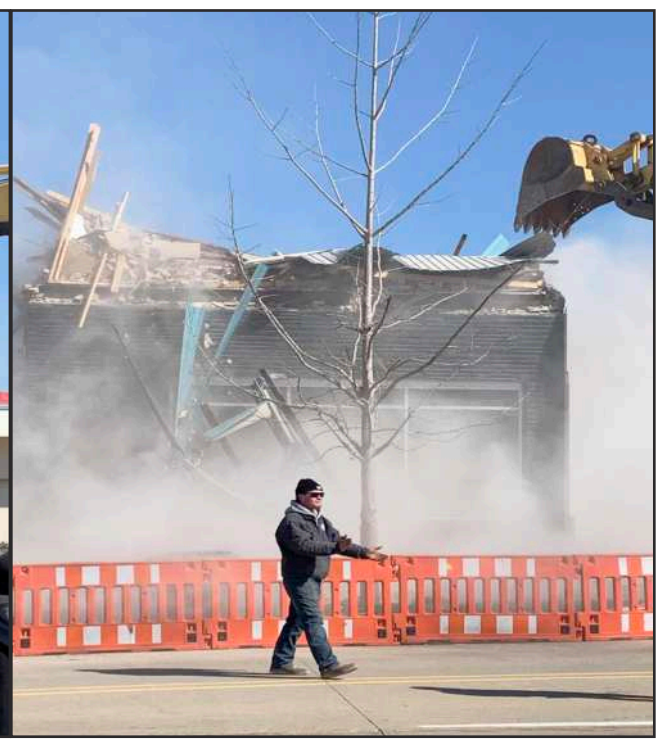
Wood said once they took possession of the property in January, 2026, the state of the building left her with no choice but to have the building condemned. "The decision to demo the building was the safest option when we thought about the safety of others and the town," she said.

With the building now razed, she said that they want the property to have a tidy look to it for this tourist season, and she wanted to get the demolition work out of the way so they would not be shutting Phoenix Street down due to heavy equipment working on the building.

"The next phase is deciding what we can afford to put there and what makes the most sense," she said.

Wood, who is a South Haven, Michigan–born entrepreneur best known as the founder and owner of The Fields of Michigan, a luxury glamping resort built on a working blueberry farm just outside South Haven, said she has a goal.

"Our goal is to present some plan sometime this summer so our project, whatever it will be, can start this fall," she said. "In the coming months we will appear before the Planning Commission to present some project ideas."



New $800k ice rink begins construction

Workers install a maze of wire support structures in anticipation of the construction of the new ice rink at South Haven's downtown pavilion.

The $800,000 project is intended to improve the winter-time ice skating rink with a more efficient in-pad cooling system. The work is being doing in phases with the first to be completed in time for the use of the pavilion by the popular farm market in the summer months. The second phase will be completed in time for next winter's ice skating season.

Council approves appointment to planning commission, ZBA

By James Windell

One of the duties of the Mayor of South Haven is to nominate people to serve on boards and commissions.

With openings on the Planning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals, Mayor Annie Brown fulfilled her duties by nominating Nick Kish to serve on the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) and George Sleeper to be on the Planning Commission.

These two appointments were included on the consent agenda for the April 6, 2026 regular City Council meeting.

However, Councilwoman Mary Hosley requested that the nominations be removed from the consent agenda and treated as a separate item.

During the public comment portion of the meeting, several people addressed the Council offering support for both Kish and Sleeper. Ryan Servatius said that Nick Kish was a realtor in the community. "You need someone who knows zoning ordinances and that's what he does on a daily basis," Servatius said. Amy Nichols told the Council that Sleeper was an experienced and well-qualified candidate for a position on the Planning Commission because he had previously served on the Planning Commission and spent 8 years on the City Council.

Despite the support for Sleeper and Kish, Hosley indicated she was opposed to both nominations. "My concern in having fair representation," Hosley said in explaining her opposition to Sleeper for the Planning Commission. "Ward Three is heavily represented [on the Planning Commission] and we need more fairness."

Hosley went on to point out that there were other applicants, implying that the Mayor should have considered or appointed other people.

Council Jeff Arnold moved to approve Sleeper to the Planning Commission. After support for his motion, Hosley said, "I reiterate what I said before." She went on to acknowledge that Sleeper has a "stellar" background, but she added that all wards should be represented on the Planning Commission.

Despite her opposition, the motion was supported by all other members of the Council and Sleeper was confirmed as a new member of the Planning Commission.

The nomination of Nick Kish to the ZBA was then considered. Councilman Dave Flack immediately made a motion to approve the nomination. Arnold seconded the motion. Hosley said that she was looking for "fair and equitable distribution on the Board." There was no further discussion and the appointment of Kish to the ZBA was approved.

Both Sleeper and Kish will begin serving out partial terms on the respective boards immediately.

U.S. Ambassador Bridget Brink opens speakers' series 12th season

The South Haven Speakers Series opens its 12th season on Thursday, April 30, with a compelling presentation by Bridget Brink, former U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine.

"Why Ukraine and Eastern Europe Matter," is the ambassador's topic as she draws on her first-hand experience during one of the most consequential geopolitical conflicts of the modern era. Brink served in Ukraine during the early years of Russia's invasion and brings rare insight into the war, its global implications, and the future of the region.

Before her posting in Ukraine, Brink served as U.S. Ambassador to Slovakia and held key diplomatic roles in Georgia and other international assignments. Her distinguished career in the U.S. Foreign Service has focused extensively on Eastern Europe and security issues affecting the region.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. at Lake Michigan College South Haven Campus, 125 Veterans Blvd.

A special reception from 6 to 6:45 p.m. will give attendees an opportunity to meet Ambassador Brink before the presentation according to Series board member Janice Varney.

"This is an extraordinary opportunity for our community to hear directly from a highly experienced diplomat on a topic that continues to shape world events," said South Haven Speakers Series Board member Joan Bauer. "Ambassador Brink's perspective from inside Ukraine during the war will make this a dynamic and timely opening to our 12th season." She concluded.

Admission is $10, and students are admitted free.

Hartford drug house filled with illegal drugs, firearms, one arrested

HARTFORD TWP. – Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott reported that detectives with the Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Narcotics Unit and SWAT Team executed a search warrant in the 66000 block of 62nd Street in Hartford Township on April 9, at approximately 8:40 a.m., according to a press release from the Van Buren County Sheriff's Office.

Two subjects were inside the residence at the time the search warrant was executed. A 45-year-old Hartford-area man was transported to the Van Buren County Jail, Paw Paw, while the female was released at the conclusion of the investigation.

During the execution of the search warrant, detectives located multiple controlled substances, digital scales, packaging materials, and several firearms. Most of the narcotics were concealed within a hidden compartment inside a bedroom wall. Detectives utilized a reciprocating saw to access the compartment and recovered approximately 10 grams of methamphetamine.

Charges to be sought include the following: maintaining a drug house, possession with intent to distribute methamphetamine, possession of oxycodone, possession of suboxone, felon in possession of firearm(s), possession of a short-barrel shotgun, felon in possession of ammunition, and two counts of unlicensed dogs.

Detectives were unable to locate serial numbers on the recovered firearms at the scene. The firearms will be submitted to the Michigan State Police Crime Laboratory for further analysis, including potential serial number restoration. Deputies from Van Buren County Animal Control responded to assist with multiple dogs at the residence. During their investigation, it was determined the dogs were unlicensed. Animal Control also noted they have received numerous prior complaints regarding these dogs running at large.

Assisting agencies included the Lawton and South Haven police department, Van Buren County Animal Control, and the Van Buren County Sheriff's Office SWAT Team.

Richland, MI, man faces property title fraud charges on Almena Twp home

A Richland, MI, man faces two felony charges following a property title fraud investigation in Almena Township, according to a press release from the Van Buren County Sheriff's Office.

Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott said that the Van Buren County Sheriff's Office conducted a fraud investigation regarding a house and property for sale in the 22000 block of M-43 Highway, Almena Township.

Through the investigation, it was learned that the suspect George Demarkus Parnell, 40, of Richland, requested a showing of the property that was listed online through a realtor. Parnell made an offer on the property and home that was initially agreed upon; however, Parnell did not honor the terms of the buy/sell agreement.

The purchase of the property was immediately terminated. Parnell then proceeded to file multiple liens against the property through the Van Buren County Register of Deeds Office, therefore clouding the property title.

The report was submitted to the Van Buren County Prosecutor's Office who then authorized the felony charges of real property - fraudulent conveyances and real property- encumber without lawful cause.

Parnell was arrested and transported to the Van Buren County Jail, where he is currently being held on bond.

SH Planning Commission sends revised master plan to City Council

James Windell

After months of discussion and revision of the South Haven Master Plan, the Planning Commission is now sending it back to the City Council.

The City of South Haven's official Master Plan was adopted in 2018 and provides a long range vision document covering roughly a decade. The Master Plan includes community description and demographics; land use and zoning guidance; transportation and infrastructure planning; parks, recreation, and cultural facilities; utilities, emergency services, and airport planning; and future land use maps and development goals. In short, the 2018 Master Plan was designed as a policy foundation for zoning, capital improvements, and long term development decisions.

Earlier this year, the Planning Commission sent a revised Master Plan to the City Council for approval. The City Council objected to the language in three different places and sent it back to the Planning Commission to deal with the areas the City Council thought should be changed.

In March, 2026, the specific task before the Planning Commission was to address those objections and approve new language in certain sections of the revised Master Plan that would address those objections.

When the agenda item was introduced during that March meeting, Kelly Getman-Dissette, City Zoning Administrator, read over the portions of the Master Plan that had proposed changes. She said that on Page 63 of the plan (Chapter 4, Future Land Use & Zoning Plan), language was added to address point two of the Council objections and "states that residential land use would not be appropriate in areas with environmental contamination without proper remediation, any residential land use must be compatible with the surrounding areas, and maps 9-16 that relate to coastal resilience should be considered in any decision to rezone."

She went on to state that also on Pages 64 and 65 of the plan (Chapter 4, Future Land Use & Zoning Plan), language was added to address point three of the City Council objections and provides additional detail regarding future consideration of low impact commercial uses in the RM-1 zoning district. She added that, "The property at 89 North Shore Drive on the Future Land Use map has been changed to Multi-family/ Attached Residential/Resort."

She said that staff removed "commercial land use designation" for that property.

Finally, she pointed out that language was added on Page 64 of the plan (Chapter 4, Future Land Use & Zoning Plan) to address point four of the Council objections. "This states that the property commonly known as 120 Baseline Road has been identified as an area where residential land use is appropriate for single family homes or attached residential dwellings and not resorts," Getman-Dissette said. "Specifically, workforce and missing middle housing would be most appropriate."

In the March 5 Planning Commission meeting the new language in the specific sections was approved and the Planning Commission voted to direct the City staff to arrange a public hearing on the language changes.

That public hearing was held in the regular meeting of the Planning Commission held on April 9, 2026. With no citizens objecting to the proposed revisions, the Planning Commission voted to approve the Master Plan and to return it to the City Council. It is now up to the City Council to consider approval of the complete Master Plan, including the changes that were made by the Planning Commission.

SH City Council discusses capital improvements

By James Windell

A Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) is a multi year planning and budgeting tool that governments use to identify, prioritize, and fund major long term investments. Those long-term investments include such things as buildings, parks, utilities, roads and other infrastructure. Essentially, a CIP is a roadmap for how a community will maintain and improve its physical assets over the next several years.

At a workshop on Monday, April 6, 2026, the South Haven City Council met to lay out what big projects South Haven needs, when they should happen, how much they'll cost, and how they'll be paid for. As is typical for CIPs, the CIP for South Haven spans the next several years.

With Public Works Director Dana Burd making the 90-minute presentation, the members of the City Council received a comprehensive report that covered the major investments held by the City.

Burd started his report by talking about the electric utility. He noted that the final phase of the 12th Avenue circuits rebuild are planned for next year, and that this will improve the ability to switch power among circuits. He said that substation construction and phases one and two of the circuit rebuild are complete, and he said that the remaining work is being combined into the next phase for next year. The construction budget for the rebuild will be about $1.4 million.

Burd then talked about facilities and city buildings. He said that the Center for the Arts obtained a grant for window reconstruction and that the CIP shows that the total project cost with a city match would be a $15,000 match within a $36,900 total cost. He also stated that the Center for the Arts needs wall brick repairs on the east wall.

He said that the City Hall, which was built in 1973, is currently undergoing elevator code compliance work due to changing Michigan codes. He also indicated that the ramps, stairs, and foundation project is moving toward a bid. He said that this project would cost about $217,000 with potential foundation repair costing as much as $89,000. Burd commented that construction would require a temporary access ramp.

The elevator code upgrades, Burd told the City Council, could be pushed to 2027–2028 to avoid overlapping with the ramps and stairs project.

The building housing the Department of Public Works is in need of security upgrades with locks and cameras in progress with Information Technology. Fire suppression updates have been completed based on inspection findings. Also, interior renovation has been completed this year creating three new workspaces to accommodate interns and other staff.

They are also exploring developing Blue Star Highway access to the DPW. Burd said that direct access from Blue Star Highway with a permanent paved driveway would improve safety and equipment movement. However, the cost and scope of such a driveway has yet to be determined.

In addition, the DPW has storage needs and they are looking at options for indoor storage, exterior space, and increased pallet storage.

In discussing the City's marinas, Burd said that façade improvements and HVAC equipment is needed at the Southside Marina. Additionally, the Army Corp of Engineers is expected to dredge the federal channel in late spring or early summer. This dredging will be limited roughly to the channel and bend area. However, the City is pursuing additional dredging and working to secure a 5-year dredge permit.

When reviewing the City's parks, Burd said that Packard Park renovation is a priority. Since the pricing for that renovation came in high, the plan is to do the renovation in phases. The next phase, Burd noted, will focus on interior renovation of the restroom and bathroom building. They will explore possible grants for the exterior phase which will be in the future.

The Optimist Tot Lot baseball refresh was also discussed, as was adding shade furniture in Riverfront Park. He said that ADA restroom improvements continue citywide, and that automatic door locks will be installed.

On the North Beach, light pole work and painting is anticipated in the future. On the South Beach, changing rooms and bathroom upgrades are regarded as long-term projects and may take place around 2031–2032. However, near-term plans include porta johns to be used due to masonry and window repair work after a fire. Among lighting concerns, Burd said that residents report glare, but that downward/ shielded fixtures, and shielding/deflectors can be added to some LED streetlights upon request.

Burd said that cemeteries are separated into a distinct CIP tab due to large upcoming needs – such as road and drive repaving -- and growing demand for columbarium spaces.

In terms of parking lots work, Burd noted that Eagle Street and Quaker Street lots are targeted for work next year. He commented that the pavilion project includes surrounding parking lot work.

Burd reported that the City invests about $200, 000 annually to repair sidewalks. The plan is to prioritize the worst sidewalks based on staff and engineering reviews as well as resident reports.

He also stated that about half of local roads are reported to be in poor condition. He went on to say that their strategy would emphasize preventative maintenance (doing crack sealing and patching) in order to keep "good roads good" and avoid costly reconstructions. There will be one reconstruction project on the road near the water filtration plant on Erie due to curb and asphalt failure. A northside streets project is planned for next year.

As one of the last items Burd talked about, he said that next year will be a high replacement year for utility trucks and city vehicles. He estimated that it may cost as much as $1.5 million for replacement vehicles due to end-of-life equipment.

City Council members raised questions about some of the projects. Although the CIP indicates the City planning for the future, it is the budget that decides what actually gets funded. City Council members will meet later this month to discuss the City's budget

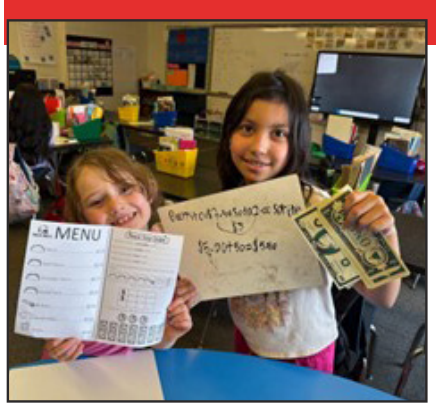
BLOOMINGDALE ELEMENTARY: UPDATES FOR OUR 2ND GRADE:



Second graders have been working on writing personal narratives to express their own experiences, thoughts, and feelings. Mrs. Dykstra's class wrote a St. Patrick's Day themed narrative paragraph about why they are lucky. In math, second graders are working on counting coins and word problems with money. This is especially tricky in an online shopping world! Mrs. Sager's class incorporated some real world examples. They practiced ordering food from fast food menus, totaling the price of their lunch, and making change from their $10 budget.

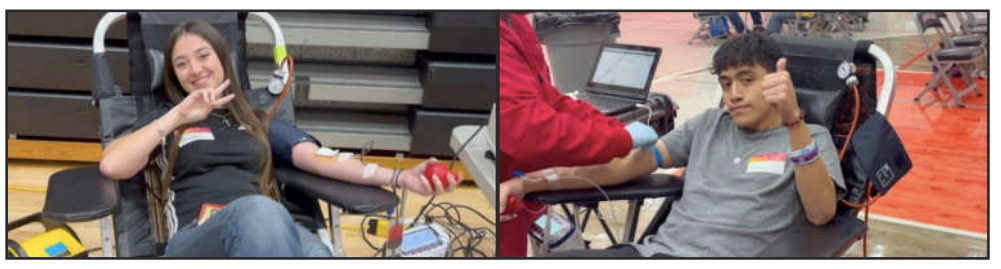
Our students were highly engaged throughout the day and expressed appreciation for the opportunity to take part in a full-day simulation of a functioning economy.

FINANCE PARK FIELD TRIP

On Tuesday, March 10, our juniors and a few seniors visited Finance Park to participate in an immersive financial literacy experience focused on personal finance and budgeting through a hands-on, real-world simulation. During the program, students were assigned a "life persona" and used tablets to manage realistic budgets that included expenses such as housing, food, transportation, and utilities, while being supported by volunteers throughout the experience. Our students were highly engaged in this valuable learning opportunity and expressed appreciation for the chance to participate in such an innovative and practical experience that connected classroom concepts to real-life financial decision-making.

BLOOMINGDALE HIGH SCHOOL BLOOD DRIVE



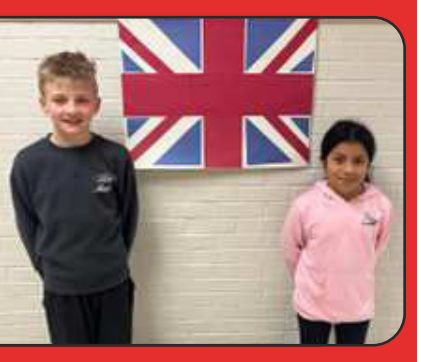
The Bloomingdale High School chapter of the National Honor Society hosted a blood drive in the high school gym on Thursday, March 12th. Student members of NHS served as volunteers, preparing snacks and drinks, as well as coordinating the donor signup and schedule. A Bloomingdale record 54 pints of blood were collected throughout the day on Thursday helping save as many as 162 lives. "The BHS student body has such an incredible service oriented and charitable mindset" said NHS sponsor Alan Bobalik "they are excited to donate every time we host a new blood drive and new students are eager to participate as soon as they turn 16."

MARCH MONTH OF READING HIGHLIGHTS

READING MONTH CELEBRATION:

Throughout the month of March, we have been celebrating Reading Month. Our theme was focused on the Winter Olympics in which each class was assigned a country to represent and learn about.

4th Grade represented Great Britain and Japan in our March Reading Olympics!



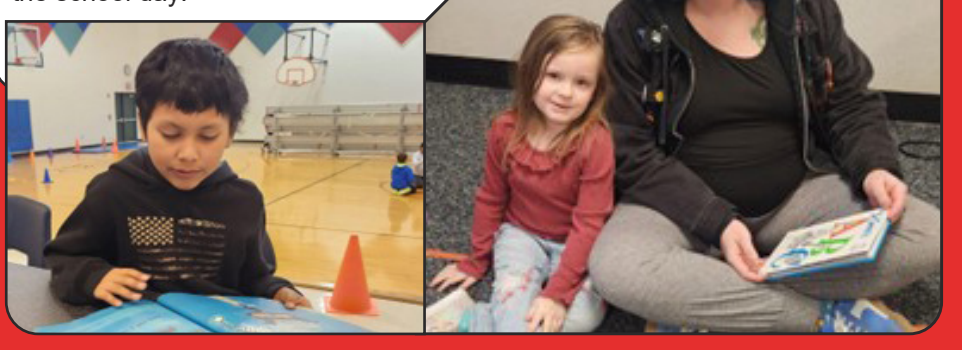
Pullman Elementary:

GUEST READERS HELP CELEBRATE READING MONTH

We had lots of wonderful guest readers join us this March for Reading Month. Thank you to everyone who took time out of their busy day to read with our students. We truly appreciate it!

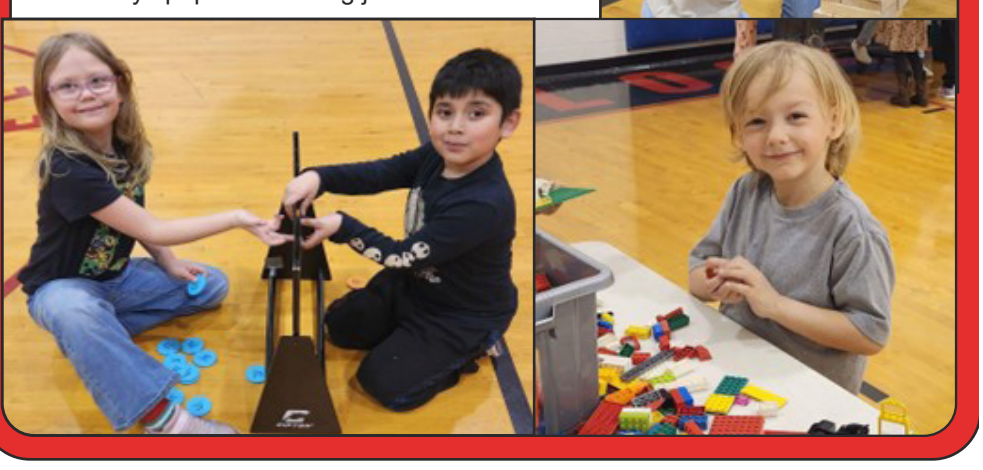
BREAKFAST WITH BOOKS

We loved having so many families join us to spend time reading with our students. Everyone enjoyed the snacks and stories. It was a special way to start the school day!



READING MONTH ENDS WITH A FUN-FILLED CELEBRATION

We wrapped up March is Reading Month with a special celebration. Thank you to Mrs. Vorndran for organizing the event and to all of our volunteers for helping make it a success. Students had a blast taking part in the activities, enjoying treats, and experiencing the always popular "reading jail"!



HOLOCAUST PRESENTER

On the evening of Thursday, March 13, Bloomingdale Middle and High School hosted a community Holocaust presentation featuring Holocaust survivor Irene Miller, which was organized by Ms. Mete. The event was well attended, with 48 community members present. In addition, student presentations were held on Wednesday, March 11 and Friday, March 13. The presentations were impactful and well received, with positive feedback from students, staff, and parents regarding the educational value and significance of hearing Ms. Miller's firsthand account of history, resilience, and hope.

MANY THANKS ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE CLASS

Many thanks to Mr. Serdel and Mr. Remington for talking to the environmental science classes about how the water drains off the parking lots, where it goes afterwards, and all sorts of neat details. The big blueprints are soooo cool!

Did you know the high school roof drains into pipes that go under the parking lot? Did you know that our roof is made with the same stuff as pool liners? Did you know there's an abandoned oil well out in the woods?

We greatly appreciate the time they gave to us and how they connected our in-class learning to real life.

Here's why a printed weekly newspaper is important

MIKE'S MUSINGS

MIKE WILCOX
n PUBLISHER n

Robert Tomlinson, our news director in Three Rivers, gave a terrific speech to the local Rotary Club about the importance of your local newspaper. I thought I would share a portion with you.

"With our twelve weekly newspapers the mission is the same. To bring you the news of our area with accurate, truthful, and informative reporting. Every week, I'm out and about at meetings, (and so are 20 other reporters we employ) events, festivals, and many sporting events to capture the happenings of our beautiful county and talk with the movers and shakers that make our community what it is.

One of the questions I get asked sometimes is this: Why does a hard-copy local newspaper matter in the Year of our Lord 2026? And the statistics surrounding local journalism means this question is, unfortunately, a legitimate one. According to Northwestern University, the number of newspapers published in the United States has dropped by almost 40 percent since 2005, and daily circulation nationwide since the turn of the century has dropped from between 50 and 60 million to now just over 15 million as of the end of 2025. Over 130 newspapers alone closed shop in 2025.

My usual response to those who ask why local newspapers matter is this: It is the most truthful and thorough way to get the news of what your town and its government are up to on any given week. Nowadays, social media like Facebook and Twitter cannot be fully trusted to give you the complete story, and most of what people post can be described as hearsay, gossip, and even outright lies at times. What they value is outrage, discourse, and cheap clicks rather than the truth, which is what I believe ultimately should matter in today's society, even if that truth may be tough to swallow and challenge previously held beliefs.

I also believe that local newspapers are the last bastion of American democracy, especially in the divisive times we live in today. And I don't mean the big, national newspapers that are owned by people who have never worked in a newsroom in their lives. I'm talking about ones that care about their local community, care about the people in the community, and want to see it succeed while acknowledging its flaws, shortcomings, and worries.

We are the only print newspaper outlet to be at the city and county meetings, the local township meetings, and some of the school board meetings, letting you know everything that goes on as best we can. While we cannot be at everything going on, we do our best to make sure that we cover the news that is impactful and relevant for the community and its future. Do you want to know which roads are getting paved next? We've got that. Do you want to know what tax money was spent on at the local city commission meeting? We've got that. Do you want to know about the next big festival coming to town? We've got that too.

What you won't find, however, is rumors or gossip like you'd find on Facebook. There's a lot that's being said about social media being assignment editors for many national and local journalists nowadays. While social media can be helpful at times with some things as a local journalist, like I said a bit ago social media is not the end-all, be-all to be fully informed about the inner workings of the community. That comes from publications like ours."

I couldn't have said it better. Kudos to Robert for a helluva speech, and much thanks to those that consider their weekly newspaper a must read.

Opinion: Jazz Appreciation Month leads to reflections about being a jazz writer

By James Windell

You may not be aware of this, but every April is Jazz Appreciation Month. This special tribute to jazz was created by the Smithsonian National Museum of American History in 2001.

As I was reminded of this recently, I thought, in keeping with the spirit of a special month for jazz, I would write about some of my experiences with jazz.

I was writing a weekly column for a small-town newspaper in 1978 when I talked my way into the job as the jazz critic for the Oakland Press in Pontiac, Michigan. Since I had learned to love jazz starting when I was about 10 years old, getting hired to write about jazz was a dream come true.

The main reason for this was because as the jazz writer for a daily newspaper it meant that I could go to any jazz event in southeastern Michigan – which I did for some 15 years. Although I worked fulltime at another job, it was a flexible job, and I could arrange my schedule to frequent nightclubs, bars, and concert venues whenever I wanted. Along the way I had some incredible experiences which involved meeting and interviewing many of my jazz heroes.

In fact, my first interview with a well-known jazz musician was with the great flute player, Herbie Mann. He was very kind and gracious to me, and I still remember things he said in that first interview. But I would go on to talk to dozens of the greats in jazz. Some of the jazz musicians I got to meet and talk to included Woody Herman, Benny Goodman, Maynard Ferguson, Buddy Rich, Mel Torme, Elvin Jones, Cleo Laine, Dizzy Gillespie, J.C. Heard, Cab Calloway, Earl Klug and Milt Jackson.

As I reflect back on those years when I was writing about jazz, there are a few experiences that stand out in my memory. One highlight was going to Count Basie's 75th birthday party in Detroit and getting to meet the great band leader. Another was the first time I talked to Woody Herman sitting in a booth at a bowling alley in Waterford. I also felt very privileged to be able to talk to Dizzy Gillespie on several occasions. And several years being able to listen to the aging veterans of New Orleans jazz when the Preservation Jazz Band came to Meadow Brook Music Festival.

But there are other special moments that stand out for me.

For instance, once I took my four-year old son Jason to a Maynard Ferguson concert at Meadow Brook Music Festival in Rochester, Michigan. Maynard and I had talked on the phone before he arrived in Detroit, and he invited me to come backstage during the intermission. So, Jason and I went backstage to see him.

When he took a look at Jason, who was a cute little blond, he grabbed him up in his arms and said he was going to introduce him to his band. He left me standing there talking to his trombone player. Fifteen minutes later he returned Jason.

Ferguson and I talked about me becoming his PR Manager, but that never quite worked out.

One summer night I was in Baker's Keyboard Lounge in Detroit when the famous alto saxophone player Sonny Stitt was performing. I was always a real square, as many of the jazz musicians would probably have described me. This night was no different. I was sitting in a booth alone across from the stage, and I was dressed in a seersucker suit with a thin tie. As Stitt played, I was jotting notes in my reporter's notepad.

In the middle of a solo, Stitt stopped playing and said looking straight at me: "Hey, Man, are you with the FBI or something?"

I told him no, I was just a reporter. He said "Humpf!" and began playing again.

After writing a story about the Canadian flutist Alexander Zonjic, he called me up and asked me to be his PR Manager. I agreed and that was a relationship that would last for 10 years. I spent a lot of time hanging out with Zonjic as well as the musicians in his band, and I saw him go from a musician known mostly in Windsor and Detroit to a national headliner.

Not that I had much to do with his success. He was his own best press agent because he has a friendly and outgoing personality. But I thoroughly enjoyed getting to be involved in his recordings and the two of us co-produced a concert that he did with the wonderful jazz pianist Bob James.

Certainly, getting to talk to jazz greats was an honor and privilege, but an unexpected reward from my years as a jazz writer was receiving letters from jazz musicians who read my articles or reviews. Two of my favorite letters came from Dave Brubeck and Nancy Wilson. While gratifying to read these letters, to me they spoke volumes about the character of the musicians who sent such kind and thoughtful notes to an unknown jazz writer.

But as I look back on that period of my life as a jazz critic, it was a heady era of my existence when I could spend my nights in bars and nightclubs and claim I was working – all while soaking up the improvisations of some of the greatest jazz musicians who ever lived.

Child abuse, domestic violence reported in Gobles

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Uniform Response and the Van Buren County Sheriff's Office School Resource Deputy handled a child abuse/domestic violence situation in Gobles. "There was substantial evidence that abuse occurred on more than one child, and the mother was abused as well," said Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott. The suspect was lodged for the incident and is facing multiple charges. "I cannot stress enough about if you suspect things like this going on, please contact law enforcement so it can be investigated," said SheriffAbbott.

"Our office just purchased three lights for our drones. The lights will assist with inside building searches and other searches in which lighting is needed. This is another tool we can use to help keep law enforcement and first responders out of harm's way," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a larceny complaint in Bloomingdale Township. Several items were stolen from the property, and the victim is dealing with several squatters living there. Some of the missing items include a dump trailer, Toro zero turn mower, EZ Go green golf cart, several minibikes, and misc. other items. "If you have any information on this case or know where these items are, please call our office," said Sheriff Abbott.

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Sergeant Weers assisted Michigan State Police (MSP) on a crash in which the driver fled on foot prior to law enforcement's arrival. "Sgt. Weers put up our drone and was able to locate the suspect who was hiding in the dark. The infrared lens picked up the suspect who was laying down and covered himself with leaves, dirt, and debris. The sergeant was able to guide in the troopers to take him into custody. The driver now faces several charges for the incident. Great teamwork with everyone involved once again," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a larceny in Gobles. The victim was at a store and dropped her phone and wallet by accident. "The suspect saw the items, picked them up, and left the store with them. The deputy who responded reviewed security cameras and was familiar with the suspect. The victim cancelled the credit cards prior to them being used. The suspect was interviewed at his residence and admitted to the incident. A female at the residence had a warrant for her arrest, so she was taken into custody for the warrant. The suspect now faces charges for the incident," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled 721 calls for service in March, with 414 traffic stops. For the year, Uniform Response is at 2,139 calls for service with 1,008 traffic stops. Dispatch handled 8,156 phone calls in March, which puts them at 23,141 for the year. Those calls include landline, 911, talk to text, and administration non-emergency line calls.

Uniform Response handled a larceny complaint in Keeler Township. "Suspects climbed onto an irrigation system and cut off the copper wiring on some of it. There have been other things happening in the area as well with the same happening. This appears to be taking place in the late hours of the night. Anyone with any information on this is asked to call our office," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Our Narcotics Unit and SWAT Team executed a search warrant in Hartford Township. This was an ongoing investigation by the Narcotic detectives that led to the search warrant. Two individuals were inside the residence as well as several dogs upon executing the search warrant. Several controlled substances were located along with digital scales, packaging materials, and firearms. Detectives did locate a hidden compartment inside a bedroom wall. Detectives utilized a reciprocating saw to access the hidden compartment and recovered approximately 10 grams of methamphetamine inside it. The male suspect was lodged and now faces multiple felonies and misdemeanors for the incident," said Sheriff Abbott.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Democrat Party supplanted by Social Democrats

Dear Editor

The Democrat Party of the past 100 some years is dead and has been supplanted by the Democratic Socialists. Born of the same roots as Vladimir Lenin's Social Democrats (the same Lenin responsible for the democide and murder of at least 7-12M people) and Karl Marx's Communist Party. Remember, Lenin stated that socialism is simply a necessary step towards communism.

The whole premise of Karl Marx's philosophy of communism is simply a matter of hating anyone who is better off than you are and then justifying the confiscation of what someone else has earned and redistributing it to those who have not earned it. I'll limit most of my quotations herein to those of Thomas Sowell the noted economist and historian who once said "Envy was once considered to be one of the seven deadly sins before it became one of the most admired virtues under its new name, social justice." Historically communism has primarily flourished in poverty stricken and or ignorant cultures. Thanks to the complete failure of the American education system at the hands of progressives, we now see this happening here at home.

In place of any constructive social contribution, the democratic socialists resort to a dumbed-down version of the Doo Dah Parade they deceptively refer to as their no kings' rallies. To further exhibit their ludicrous tantrums, speciously referring to President Donald Trump as a king. Even after Obama lied to the American people about Obamacare and threatened to fine American citizens for not paying for insurance to Biden requiring all American citizens to get the unproven and often ineffective Covid vaccines or lose their jobs. We also witnessed Obama and Biden completely disregarding and misrepresenting our Constitution while weaponizing our U. S. Justice Department and IRS to punitively punish and imprison their political enemies, namely conservatives and Christians. Just like communist regimes around the world, they did this to accumulate power and wealth for themselves and their cronies. Unlike Obama and Biden, President Trump and many in his administration have taken considerable income cuts to serve in this administration and the American people.

At the March 28 national no kings' protests, after years of deceiving the American people by claiming that they are patriots, we witnessed the New Democratic Party protest shoulder to shoulder with not only Antifa and their usual paid protestors, but also with the American Communist Party. Then they continue to lie about who finances their activities. Indivisible, who takes credit for the no kings' movement is funded by no less than the America hating oligarch George Soros through his Open Society Foundation as well as the Chinese Communist Party through Neville Singham's People's Forum as well as other international miscreants.

Both Marx and Lenin despised Christianity and realized that to succeed in their evil endeavors they must first eliminate people's Christian faith in order to replace morality with their debased secular ideology.

For decades, the American left, supported by the American education system and main stream media have promoted the false narrative that our founder's believed in the separation of church and state. Substantiated by countless historical documents, America is a Christian Republic by our founder's design and the left knows that they cannot prevail in a Christian nation.

All this emphasizes the glaring element that logic has never been the strong suite of the communist movement. To demonstrate this, simply attempt to have an amicable conversation with one. They will shout you down, blow whistles and horns, scream in megaphones and bang drums but they are incapable of an intellectual conversation. They are devoid of critical thinking or civil discourse. As a simple exercise stop by the next no kings protest in a town near you. Approach any of these angry, entitled mostly white liberals, paid protestors and agitators and ask them what they are specifically protesting against and what better solutions do they propose. Don't worry this won't take you long as they have nothing to offer other than juvenal illogical rants, hate and bitterness. Again, to quote Mr. Sowell "One of the painful signs of dumbed down education is how many people are unable to make a coherent argument. They can vent their emotions, question motives, make bold assertions and repeat slogans, but they are not used to reasoning."

Simply inquire, if capitalism is so evil, name at least one successful, secure and prosperous communist or socialist industrialized nation. None exist now or throughout history. To quote the late economist Walter E. Williams "Prior to capitalism, the way people amassed great wealth was by looting, plundering and enslaving their fellow man. Capitalism made it possible to become wealthy by serving your fellow man."

In true communist fashion, after my last published letter to the editor, a local liberal actually chastised a local newspaper editor for publishing my letter, hiding behind the cowardly veil of protecting our community from my so-called hate speech with nothing more to substantiate their "feelings" other than predictably calling me a racist and misogynist. Marx and Lenin would have been proud of such obtuse and tyrannical behavior.

"If they attack you personally it means they have not a single political argument left." Margaret Thatcher.

Sheriff urges county drivers to be aware of Amish population on roadways

Michigan is home to more than 50 Amish communities, representing over 18,000 residents across 52 settlements statewide. These communities include multiple families, schools, and church districts, all of which rely on walking, bicycling, and horse and buggy travel as part of daily life. Their presence on rural and state roadways is significant, and they deserve the same respect, safety considerations, and roadway awareness afforded to every Michigan resident.

A rise in vehicle speeds and driver distraction has contributed to an increase in crashes involving Amish roadway users. In 2023, there were 37 Amish related traffic crashes in Michigan, and in 2024 there were 30. Many of these incidents resulted in fatalities or life altering injuries. These crashes occur throughout the year, January through December, with the majority happening during daylight hours rather than in the dark.

Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott said, "We've had three crashes in roughly the last year in our county, and several factors contributed to the crashes."

The cases are pending prosecution, and Sheriff Abbott could not go into detail about them. "What I can say is that if all three drivers obeyed the laws these crashes would not have happened."

Sheriff Abbott arranged a meeting last year with the Amish community in the Bloomingdale area, with the Van Buren County Road Commission also attending. At that meeting, Sheriff's Office personnel discussed with the Amish community some ideas to help with safety traveling on the roadway.

"We went over different ideas such as strobe lights being added to the top of the buggies. We showed them different ones that operate off batteries and explained how they have made a difference with school buses, road commission plow trucks, small plow trucks, etc. We also showed them highly visible reflective vests to wear on buggies, bikes, walking, etc. Since then, several have been doing this in the Bloomingdale area. The meeting was well attended and received by the Amish community," said Sheriff Abbott.

He concluded, "I cannot stress enough about being aware of your surroundings when driving in Van Buren County, especially with our Amish population being on the roadway on a daily basis."

Things to remember when driving near horse drawn carriages:

- Carriage drivers are not required to have a driver's license, which means operators may be very young or less experienced.
- There are no seat belt or car seat requirements for horse drawn carriages and young children or infants are often held on a rider's lap.
- Lighting and reflective materials are required on carriages; however, many Amish communities voluntarily use these safety features.
- Horses can spook easily. Approach and pass slowly and leave plenty of space between your vehicle and the horse.
- Only pass when roadway markings allow it and do so at a reduced speed.
- Avoid using your horn.

Michigan Laws Applying to Amish Buggies

1. Slow-Moving Vehicle (SMV) Emblem Requirement
   - Under MCL 257.688 (Michigan Vehicle Code), any vehicle that cannot exceed 25 mph on public roads must display the slow-moving vehicle (SMV) emblem:
     - ◊ A fluorescent orange triangle with a red reflective border.
   - This applies directly to horse-drawn buggies.
   - The emblem must be visible from at least 500 feet in daylight and nighttime.

Note: Some Amish communities object to the orange triangle on religious grounds. In those cases, red reflective tape and lanterns are sometimes used instead, but Michigan law formally requires the SMV emblem unless there is a negotiated exemption.

2. Lighting Requirements
   - Per MCL 257.684 and MCL 257.688, buggies operated between sunset and sunrise (or in poor visibility) must display:
     - ◊ At least one white light on the front (visible from 500 ft).
     - ◊ At least two red lights or lanterns on the rear (visible from 500 ft).
     - ◊ Reflectors or reflective tape to outline the buggy's rear.

Threat of Christian Nationalism discussed

By James Windell

When Father John Wakefield and Pastor David Frey spoke at Lake Michigan College, South Haven, on Thursday, April 9, 2026, the title of their talk was "The Impact of Christian Nationalism in the U.S." However, both told the story of their own religious journey that began in their youth growing up in churches that today would be identified as Christian Nationalist communities.

David Frey is pastor of First Congregational Church, UCC, 651 Phoenix Street, South Haven. John Wakefield is the rector of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, 410 Erie Street, South Haven.

The Baptist church that Frey attended as a youth offered what he said was "An incomplete and exclusionary version of American history." He added that that church, which was exclusively made up of white evangelicals, "gave us a list of people to blame" for being ignored and looked down on. That list, he said, included "Communists, hippies, welfare queens, drug lords, secular humanists, feminists, gays and lesbians, immigrants and transgenders."

Both Frey and Wakefield told about breaking away from the church and its views in their 20s. Wakefield described his life growing up as a member of The Church of the Nazarene, a Protestant Christian denomination. Wakefield said that The Church of the Nazarene was inclusive and that anybody outside of that church "was an enemy that must be defeated."

The program featuring Frey and Wakefield was sponsored by South Haven Indivisible, a group that states that it works to protect democracy by organizing peaceful protests, activism, and community activities. South Haven Indivisible approaches Christian Nationalism as a concerning political movement.

This particular program was the third in a series focusing on the threat of Christian Nationalism. In a flier passed out before the speakers began, Christian Nationalism was defined as a "cultural framework that idealizes and advocates a fusion of Christianity with American civic life." The flier also stated that Christian Nationalism contends that "American has been and should always be distinctly 'Christian' from top to bottom – in its self-identity, interpretations of its own history, sacred symbols, cherished values and public policies…"

Wakefield said in his opening remarks that he and Frey were there as "Christian representatives of a community that is not Chistian Nationalist." "Christian Nationalists," Wakefield said, "believe there are certain things that need to be enforced by law in order to make us worthy of God."

After each of the speakers talked about their own background and their personal discoveries that they could not support the Christian Nationalist perspectives of their churches, they opened it up for questions from the audience.

Among the questions asked was that of a woman who requested that the speakers give three things that people could do to cope with the spread of Christian Nationalism.

"One would be to do something meaningful to serve the poor," Pastor Frey suggested. He went on to say that he also recommended being centered in the goodness of the love of life in ways that are truly meaningful. Finally, he recommended to say to a young person "we love you and we need who you are in this world."

Father Wakefield also contributed his suggestions. "Join a community of love and find a community where love is the leading factor – not fear," he said. He continued by recommending that people should find a place where they can be loved and they can love others. "And connect with poor and the oppressed.," he said. His final suggestion was to be unplugged.

"Find at least 30 minutes every day to mediate or pray."

Boards and A Boutique opens in South Haven

By James Windell

Remember when you were little and the family would gather around the dining room table and play board games?

If you recall an earlier time in life when playing Chutes and Ladders, Parcheesi, Connect Four, or Monopoly was a fun time, then you can re-live a bygone era with the opening of Boards and a Boutique in downtown South Haven.

The essence of the new store harkens back to a time when time felt slower, families were present and not on their phones, and fun didn't require screens or constant stimulation.

That, says Alissa Gosser, who along with her husband Alex, are opening up the new store on Center Street, is what the board side of their business is all about.

"I've always enjoyed board games with my family," Gosser said sitting at one of the tables in her store, "but I like bringing people together to do something communal and this is about people in the community coming together to play games."

When Gosser was a child, she remembers playing games at home. "I liked playing any board games from Monopoly to Trouble, and when I got older, I loved playing Ticket to Ride and Catan," she said.

While you might be familiar with Monopoly, you may not know that Trouble is a fast, Luck-based board game first released in 1965 by Kohner Brothers and later produced by Milton Bradley. Ticket to Ride is a railroad building strategy game published by Days of Wonder in 2004. And Catan is a massively influential strategy board game released in 1995. The game of Catan revolves around gathering resources (wood, brick, wheat, sheep, ore) and trading with other players.

Boards and A Boutique has all these games and about 180 others. The Gossers rent the game and the table space for a day or evening of old-fashioned fun so you can play your favorite boards games. They offer beverages and snacks while you are playing.

Gosser said that she and her husband, who is a data engineer for Stryker, got the idea for the game store when she was ready to retire from her career as a psychiatric nurse. "I always enjoyed board games, but as a nurse I liked bringing people together to do something communal and therapeutic," she said. "Giving people a place to play games seemed like a good idea."

The other side of the store is a boutique featuring clothes and gifts. "We have clothes and mental health merchandise,' she said, "and this is because of my job in mental health."

The cost of a table and anyone of their board games is $10 for adults and $8 for kids under 18. However, there is no time limit on your use of a table and with that you receive one soda pop and one snack.

Alissa and Alex Grosser have been married for five years and recently built a house in South Haven. This is their first business and they are very excited about being opened for customers.

"We just want people to come in and have a good time with their family," Alissa says.

"On rainy days and red flag days, people can come to our place and enjoy playing one of our games – and maybe take a peek at my boutique."

Boards and A Boutique is located at 269 Center Street, South Haven. For more information, call 815-236-7967.

DOUBLE YOUR PLEASURE IN CADILLAC

Author and Tom Maat with two nice crappies

The wind was pushing us along at above the perfect speed. We were casting the Charlie Brewer Crappie Grubs. The west and northwest ends of Lake Mitchell have a nice mix of weedbeds and open-water slots. A mixed bag of mostly crappier, some dandy pumpkinseeds, and a bass or two were caught.

One hour into our morning fishing, the rain moved in. We could see the rain line approaching. It took about 30 minutes to reach us. Quickly, we packed up and headed to the northeast end of Lake Cadillac. This area is easy to find. Look for the area where the park is, the walking trails, and across the street, the athletic field and the old military hut buildings.

The corner of the area is filled with old wooden dock pilings. Mixed in, you will find a few patches of cabbage weeds. Bordering this area and following the hiking trails is a really nice line of cabbage weeds. We fished this area for an hour before the rain, and the cold front hit.

One of the perks of fishing Lake Cadillac and Lake Mitchell is that one of the lakes are generally fishable under almost any weather condition. These two lakes are connected by a canal.

Vacationers will enjoy the sandy swimming area that borders the Canal on the Lake Mitchell side. Across the street and accessible to Lake Cadillac via the tunnel is the State Campground. Campers can park their boats overnight in the Canal, but it's first-come, first-served.

Crappie fishing is good on both lakes. Some years we land better fish on Mitchell, other years on Cadillac. Mitchell has far more walleye, lots more, in my opinion. Cadillac might have bigger walleye, but the numbers are impressive on Mitchell.

Pike fishing is a toss-up between the two lakes. We catch larger pike on Cadillac, more on Mitchell. Mitchell has a healthy population of pumpkinseeds and an outstanding population of large bluegills. Cadillac is no slouch, with a very diverse population of panfish and bass. Thus, a great reason to fish these connected lakes.

We color-code our graphs so that all depths between eight and twelve feet appear in a different shade of blue from the rest of the lake. This is the fastest way to find the weedbeds on Mitchell and the humps on Cadillac.

You can get as complicated as you wish. We keep things simple. Plastic tails are used when chasing crappies. The Brewer grubs are a favorite, as are the action tails. We might opt for a slip float with a marabou jig tipped with a minnow when drifting or when the wind takes the pleasure out of casting the weed edges.

Our walleye fishing is done primarily with three-inch Brewer grubs on a jighead or the Whistler jighead. Some days we fish a slip bobber with a leech on one rod and a lip bobber for the crappies.

Bluegills and pumpkinseeds are caught on a mini worm harness rig or a slip float. Bass and pike on spinners or the Rapala Husky Jerks.

On every trip to Cadillac/Mitchell, we walk the 40 acres of diverse habitat at the DNR visitors center. The center is located on the north side of the Canal. The walking trails are in excellent condition, and the various loops take you around marshes, wetlands, and Hemlock stands.

Turtles, a few bears, deer, muskrats, various species of ducks, geese, and many songbirds will be spotted from time to time. It's really a cool place to walk. The visitor's center is free, and the inside is very impressive with all of the cool displays. Fish, waterfowl, birds, and animals are mounted and on display, along with a history of the area. Once again, it's free.

This location offers fishing, archery, and mushroom-hunting classes, and, yes, you are in the center of the state's best morel area. You really need to stop in and check out what they have to offer during your visit. Remember, turkey season is kicking off, fishing season has started, and Bob's Gun and Tackle Shop is here to assist you.

Road Commission to begin guardrail vegetation control program

LAWRENCE - The Van Buren County Road Commission will begin its annual guardrail vegetation control program the week of April 13, or as conditions allow. This targeted maintenance effort will address overgrown brush and grasses surrounding roadside guardrails throughout Van Buren County, improving visibility and enhancing overall roadway safety. The program is expected to continue through April.

Licensed applicators from The Daltons, Inc. will perform the work, applying approved herbicides to vegetation located in front of, beneath, and behind selected guardrail sections. These treatments help ensure guardrails remain visible.

Residents with questions or concerns about the vegetation control program are encouraged to contact Brad Bolinger of The Daltons, Inc. at (574) 267-7511, or via email at: angie@thedaltonsinc.com.

FARMERS ARE REMINDED TO KEEP RIGHT-OF-WAY CROP FREE
"We Mow - So Don't Sow!"

As spring approaches and the planting season begins, the Van Buren County Road Commission is reminding area farmers to keep road rights-of-way clear for public safety and maintenance purposes. Crops must be planted at least 14 feet from the road's edge or behind the back slope of an existing ditch. Planting within the right-of-way is done at the farmer's own risk, and the Road Commission cannot offer compensation for any crop loss within that area, in accordance with Policy 2022-02.

The Road Commission performs regular mowing cycles throughout the growing season to maintain safe sightlines along roadsides and intersections. Any crops planted within the right-of-way will be mowed during normal maintenance operations. In late summer, the Commission also conducts chemical vegetation management to control brush and woody growth. Road rights-of-way are reserved for road signs, drainage, and public utilities, and are typically 66 feet wide (33 feet on each side of the road's centerline).

To review a copy of the Board of County Road Commission's Policy 2022-02, Right-of-Way Mowing, Brush Control & Spraying Policy visit the Road Commission's website at: https://www.vbcrc.org/policies, or contact the Road Commission's Managing Director, Bret Witkowski, at 269-674-8011, Extension 222, BretWitkowski@vbcrc.org. The Road Commission's Policy complies with the standards created by law (MCL 247.665b).
